PREFACE

In preparing the first edition of the Historical Register of Officers of the Continental Army, which was published in 1893, the compiler examined all the records then available in the several executive departments in Washington and supplemented the data obtained from this source by such as could be gathered from documents published by the Government and also those printed by States and individuals.

An Act of Congress of July 27, 1892, provided for the transfer to the War Department for preservation and indexing of the revolutionary records in the Treasury and Interior Departments, and an Act of March 2, 1913, directed the Secretary of War to collect or copy "the scattered military records of the Revolutionary War," including those of State troops, etc. Under those acts many revolutionary records were transferred to the War Department. Others not in the possession of the Government were loaned to the Department to be copied and returned. As a result of this legislation, the Government has now a fair collection of the Army records of the Revolutionary War.

This collection is, however, far from complete. All official records filed in the War Department when it was burned November 8, 1800, were then destroyed. Many other records or documents have been lost or destroyed through various causes and still others have become, through lack of care, so torn and mutilated as to be of little or no value for reference. Very few rolls or other records pertaining to the troops of Georgia and the two Carolinas have been found, most of them having probably been captured or destroyed by the enemy during the almost continuous fighting in those States.

A good many records are in possession of historical or other societies, libraries, and individuals and have not been sent to the War Department to be copied. For these reasons a complete list of the names of all the participants in that glorious struggle for our independence, either of officers, or of soldiers who shouldered the musket, can never be compiled.

There are in existence many records pertaining to the Militia during the War. These are fragmentary, and an examination of such of them as could be found shows that they consist principally of pay accounts for service for short periods of from two days to three months, but unfortunately the dates, or even the years in which the service was rendered, are rarely shown.

The compiler was allowed access to all the records on file in the War Department bearing on the Revolutionary War, and this enabled him not only to correct and more fully complete the data contained in the former volume, but to add the names of several thousand officers with a more or less complete record of their services.

The records given in this volume are not strictly official, for much of the data has not been obtained from official records, but in order to complete as far as possible the service of each officer, other sources of reliable information have been consulted and the data obtained therefrom included. (Many officers of the Militia and State troops who were mentioned by name in reports of battles, campaigns, etc., or of whom a list was furnished at the time, appear in this volume. The rank such officers held at the time mentioned only is stated, as many no doubt attained subsequently a higher grade.)

(The compiler has devoted much time and labor to the preparation of this work, in the examination of records of various sorts such as returns, rolls, orderly books, pay accounts, etc., many of which are not in the possession of the Government, but have been loaned to him by societies and individuals.)

This NEW EDITION contains the records of 14,000 Officers, there being 6,000 NEW names not recorded in the former edition, and of the 8,000 Officers mentioned in the old edition, a great many records have been revised, augmented and completed.

FRANCIS B. HEITMAN.

Field Officers

REGIMENTS OF THE CONTINENTAL LINE

Note.—The appointment of the first and termination of service of the last field officer of each regiment or battalion, as a general rule, indicates the term of service of each organization. While many of the regiments of the Continental Line bore a numerical designation, they were, however, generally known and designated in orders and correspondence by the names of their respective colonels or commanders. The term battalion, instead of regiment, appears to have been the general designation.

The dates here given are not in all cases dates of rank, but only the periods they belonged to the battalion; for date of rank and continuity of service see alphabetical list.

It will be observed that in many cases the successive order is somewhat irregular, which is owing to many causes, viz: absence of complete records; the several rearrangements made by law: by the authority of the commanding generals of the different departments, and by the appointment or promotion in the place of those absent on detached duty, sick, prisoners of war, etc., and who on return of such absence were returned to their former, or assigned to other, regiments.

In addition to the list of regiments or battalions herewith there were others belonging to the Continental Line—the Pulaski Legion, Lee's battalion of Light Dragoons, Armand's Partisan Corps, Corps of Engineers, Sappers and Miners, and Rangers, but only few rolls or lists of these are on file, not sufficient to make an approximately correct roster of field officers, hence they are omitted; such names, however, as were found of these organizations appear in the alphabetical list.

By the act of 7th October, 1777, it was "Resolved, unanimously, that the thanks of Congress be given General Washington for his wise and well-concerted attack upon the enemy's army at Germantown on the 4th inst., and to the officers and soldiers of the army, for their brave exertions on that occasion, Congress being well satisfied that the best designs and boldest efforts may sometimes fail by unforeseen incidents, trusting that on future occasions the valor and virtue of the army will, by the blessing of Heaven, be crowned with complete and deserved success."

By the act of 7th July, 1778, it was "Resolved, unanimously, that the thanks of Congress be given General Washington for the activity with which he marched from the camp at Valley Forge in pursuit of the enemy; for his distinguished exertions in forming the line of battle, and for his great, good conduct in leading on the attack and gaining the important victory of Monmouth over the British grand army, under the command of Sir H. Clinton, in their march from Philadelphia to New York."

By the act of 26th July, 1779, it was "Resolved, that the thanks of Congress be given to His Excellency, General Washington, for the vigilance, wisdom and magnanimity with which he hath conducted the military operations of these States, and which are among many other signal instances manifested in his orders for the late glorious enterprise and successful attack on the enemy's fortress on the banks of Hudson River."

By the act of 27th October, 1779, it was "Resolved, that the thanks of Congress be given to His Excellency, General Washington, for directing the important expedition against the Mingo and Munsey Indians and that part of the Senecas on the Allegheny River, by which the depredations of those savages assisted by their merciless instigators, subjects of the King of Great Britain, upon the defenceless inhabitants of the western frontiers have been restrained and prevented."

By the act of 29th October, 1781, it was "Resolved, that the thanks of the United States, in Congress assembled, be presented to His Excellency, General Washington, for the eminent services which he has rendered the United States, and particularly for the well-concerted plan against the British garrisons in York and Gloucester; for the vigor, attention and military skill with which that plan was executed, and for the wisdom and prudence manifested in the capitulation. * * * and that General Washington be directed to communicate to the officers and soldiers under his command the thanks of the United States in Congress assembled, for their conduct and valor on this occasion. * * * That two stands of colors taken from the British army under the capitulation of York be presented to His Excellency, General Washington, in the name of the United States in Congress assembled."

At request, General Washington attended Congress, 26th August, 1783, and, being introduced by two members, the President addressed him as follows: "Sir, Congress feel particular pleasure in seeing your Excellency, and in congratulating you on the success of a war, in which you have acted so conspicuous a part. It has been the singular happiness of the United States that during a war so long, so dangerous and so important, Providence has been graciously pleased to preserve the life of a General, who has merited and possessed the uninterrupted confidence and affection of his fellow-citizens. In other nations, many have performed services, for which they have deserved and received the thanks of the public. But to you, sir, peculiar praise is due. Your services have been essential in acquiring and establishing the freedom and independence of your country. They deserve the grateful acknowledgments of a free and independent nation. Those acknowledgments Congress have the satisfaction of expressing to your Excellency. Hostilities have now ceased, but your country still needs your services. She wishes to avail herself of your talents in forming the arrangements which will be necessary for her in time of peace. For this reason your attendance at Congress has been requested. A committee is appointed to confer with your Excellency, and to receive your assistance in preparing and digesting plans relative to those important objects.

To which His Excellency made the following reply:

"Mr. President: I am too sensible of the honorable reception I have now experienced, not to be penetrated with the deepest feelings of gratitude. Notwithstanding Congress appear to estimate the value of my life beyond any services I have been able to render the United States, yet I must be permitted to consider the wisdom and unanimity of our national councils, the firmness of our citizens and the patience and bravery of our troops, which have produced so happy a termination of the war, as the most conspicuous effect of the Divine interposition, and the surest presage of our future happiness. Highly gratified by the favorable sentiments which Congress are pleased to express of my past conduct, and amply rewarded by the confidence and affection of my fellow-citizens, I cannot hesitate to contribute my best endeavors towards the establishment of the national security in whatever manner the sovereign power may think proper to direct, until the ratification of the definite treaty of peace, or the final evacuation of our country by the British forces; after either of which events, I shall ask permission to retire to the peaceful shade of private life. Perhaps, sir, no occasion may offer more suitable than the present to express my humble thanks to God, and acknowledgments to my country, for the great and uniform support I have received in every vicissitude of fortune, and for the many distinguished honors which Congress have been pleased to confer upon me in the course of the war."

In Congress, December, 23, 1783.

According to order, His Excellency, the Commander-in-Chief, was admitted to a public audience, and being seated, the President, after a pause, informed him that the United States, in Congress assembled, were prepared to receive his communications: whereupon he arose and addressed them as follows:

"Mr. President: The great events on which my resignation depended having at length taken place, I have now the honor of offering my sincere congratulations to Congress, and of presenting myself before them to surrender into their hands the trust committed to me, and to claim the indulgence of retiring from the service of my country.

"Happy in the confirmation of our independence and sovereignty and pleased with the opportunity afforded the United States of becoming a respectable nation, I resign with satisfaction the appointment I accepted with diffidence in my abilities to accomplish so arduous a task; which, however, was superseded by a confidence in the rectitude of our cause, the support of the supreme power of the Union and the patronage of Heaven.

"The successful termination of the war has verified the most sanguine expectations; and my gratitude for the interposition of Providence and the assistance I have received from my countrymen, increases with every review of the momentous contest.

"While I repeat my obligations to the army in general, I should do injustice to my feelings not to acknowledge in this place the peculiar services and distinguished merits of the gentlemen who have been attached to my person during the war. It was impossible the choice of confidential officers to compose my family should have been more fortunate. Permit me, sir, to recommend in particular those who have continued in the service to the present moment as worthy of the favorable notice and patronage of Congress.

"I consider it an indispensable duty to close this last act of my official life by commending the interests of our dearest country to the protection of Almighty God, and those who have the superintendence of them to His holy keeping.

"Having now finished the work assigned me I retire from the great theatre of action, and bidding an affectionate farewell to this august body, under whose orders I have so long acted, I here offer my commission and take my leave of all the employments of public life."

He then advanced and delivered to the President his commission, with a copy of his address, and, having resumed his place, the President returned him the following answer:

"Sir: The United States in Congress assembled, receive with emotions, too affecting for utterance, the solemn resignation of the authorities under which you have led their troops with success through a perilous and a doubtful war. Called upon by your country to defend its invaded rights, you accepted the sacred charge before it had formed alliances and whilst it was without funds or a government to support you. You have conducted the great military contest with wisdom and fortitude, invariably regarding the rights of the civil power through all disasters and changes. You have, by the love and confidence of your fellow-citizens, enabled them to display their martial genius, and transmit their fame to posterity. You have persevered till these United States, aided by a magnanimous king and nation, have been enabled, under a just Providence, to close the war in freedom, safety and independence; on which happy event we sincerely join you in congratulations.

Having defended the standard of liberty in this new world; having taught a lesson useful to those who inflict and to those who feel oppression, you retire from the great theatre of action, with the blessings of your fellow-citizens, but the glory of your virtues will not terminate with your military command, it will continue to animate remotest ages.

"We feel with you our obligations to the army in general, and will particularly charge ourselves with the interests of those confidential officers who have attended your person to this affecting moment.

"We join you in commending the interests of our dearest country to the protection of Almighty God, beseeching Him to dispose the hearts and minds of its citizens, to improve the opportunity afforded them, of becoming a happy and respectable nation. And for you, we address to Him our earnest prayers, that a life so beloved may be fostered with all His care, and that your days may be happy as they have been illustrious, and that He will finally give you that reward which this world cannot give."

By the United States in Congress Assembled.

A PROCLAMATION!

Whereas, in the progress of an arduous and difficult war, the armies of the United States of America have eminently displayed every military and patriotic virtue, and are not less to be applauded for their fortitude and magnanimity in the most trying scenes of distress than for a series of heroic and illustrious achievements, which exalt them to a high rank among the most zealous and successful defenders of the rights and liberties of mankind: And, whereas, by the blessing of Divine Providence on our cause and our arms, the glorious period is arrived when our national independence and sovereignty are established, and we enjoy the prospect of a permanent and honorable peace; we, therefore, the United States, in Congress assembled, thus impressed with a lively sense of the distinguished merit and good conduct of the said armies, do give them the thanks of their country for their long, eminent and faithful services. And it is our will and pleasure that such part of the Federal armies as stands engaged to serve during the war, and as by our acts of the 26th day of May, the 11th day of June, the 9th day of August, and the 26th day of September last were furloughed, shall, from and after the 3d day of November next, be absolutely discharged, by virtue of this our proclamation from the said service, and we do declare that the further services in the field of the officers who are deranged and on furlough in consequence of our aforesaid acts can now be dispensed with, and they have our full permission to retire from service, without being longer liable from their present engagements to be called into command. And of such discharge and permission to retire from service respectively all our officers, civil and military, and all others whom it may concern, are required to take notice and to govern themselves accordingly.

Given under the seal of the United States, in Congress assembled, witness His Excellency, ELIAS BOUDINOT, our President in Congress, this 18th day of October, in the year of our Lord 1783, and of the sovereignty and independence of the United States of America the eighth. ●

REVOLUTIONARY WAR, &c.

Communicated to the House of Representatives, January 10, 1827.

DEPARTMENT OF WAR, JANUARY 10, 1827.

SIR: In Compliance with the resolution of the House of Representatives of the 8th instant, directing the Secretary of War "to report to this House the name and rank of each officer of the Continental Army who served to the end of the Revolutionary War, and who were, by the resolution of Congress, entitled to half pay during life; and also, as nearly as practicable, the names of the surviving officers and their places of residence,"

I transmit herewith a list of the names and rank of the officers of the Revolutionary War, as complete as the records of the Department will furnish, with the exception of Foreign officers. There is no evidence in the department to show which of them "were by the resolution of Congress entitled to half pay," nor is it known which of them are still living, with their places of residence, except those who are on the pension list.

Very respectfully, &c.,

JAMES BARBOUR, Secretary of War.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives.

LIST OF FRENCH OFFICERS

THAT SERVED WITH THE

AMERICAN ARMY,

I am indebted to the Pennsylvania Historical Society for this list, who kindly permitted me to make certain extracts from the original, which is in French, not arranged as here, as it was deemed best to follow the alphabetical style of the book, and also omitted other irrelevant matter, following, however, as near the original in the personal history of each officer as possible. The original manuscript was obtained for Mr. William B. Reed (who presented the same to the Pennsylvania Historical Society) by the Honorable Richard Rush, while Minister at Paris, and was accompanied by the following note:

JUNE, 25th, 1849.

SIR: To comply with the wish you expressed in the note, which was delivered to me by Mr. Perkins, I hastened to search, according to the very expressions of the note, for the names of the French officers who served in the Revolutionary War of the United States of America. It was in vain, unfortunately, that I searched for the muster-rolls at the Ministère de la Marine, or at the Dépôt, and in the Archives de la Guerre, looking through a great number of volumes and boxes. Appreciating, however, the high feeling that inspired the request, I was not willing to be conquered by difficulties, and thought that with time and perseverance it would be possible to supply the absence of the muster-rolls. The papers, which I have the honor to address you, will explain to you how I proceeded to attain that end. Taking the names of some officers well-known as having contributed to the liberty of the United States, I conceived that I could find in their Etats de Services the different actions in which our troops had distinguished themselves, and thus know the time when the notes for the rewards to be conferred on those who had deserved well of the two countries had been prepared in the Ministers' offices. This partly succeeded and brought me afterwards to look for the muster-rolls of the corps to which belonged the officers who had signalized themselves; but though I have added many names to my lists from that source, I cannot say that they are complete, for I could not conclude from the muster-rolls themselves that all the officers belonging to the corps had been present in America. The regiments not having sent very often more than a detachment, and the detachments sometimes having served only on shipboard, I could not designate an officer as having served in the American War, unless the fact had been indicated in some note concerning that time, and so I was obliged to confine myself to inscribing the names of the officers whom I could positively ascertain to have been engaged in the war.

I hope, sir, these lists, however incomplete, will not be without interest for the history of the two countries, nor do I regret the three weeks I have given to collecting them, though I may have been fatigued at moments by the dryness of the task. I beg you, sir, to observe, that if I have not found the whole as you desired, I have succeeded at least in that which was most important, having recovered from oblivion the names of all those whom their good behavior, their talents, and courage had rendered most conspicuous. On the other side, as a mere name is not significant enough and does not sufficiently particularize a family and a man, you will be pleased, no doubt, to find that to each officer's name I have added the date and the place of his birth, and some other details contained in the rolls. This I know was not in the directions given me, but being occupied with historical works myself I thought it would be agreeable to the historian to whom these notes are destined, nor will I neglect to apprise him that in the course of my researches I have found some documents concerning the Independence War, which I have not seen quoted elsewhere. I have the honor to be, sir, yours, most respectfully,

PIERRE MARGRY,

11 Rue du Mont Thabor.

Mons. RUSH, Minister Plenipotentiaire des Etats Unis à Paris.

CONTINENTAL ARMY BREVETS.

The following resolution was passed by the Continental Congress September 30, 1783:

On the report of a Committee, consisting of Mr. McHenry, Mr. Peters, and Mr. Bland, to whom was referred a letter of 15th May, from the Secretary of War:

Resolved, That the Secretary of War issue to all officers in the Army, under the rank of major-general, who hold the same rank now that they held in the year 1777, a brevet commission one grade higher than their present rank, having respect to their seniority; and that commissions for full colonels be granted to the lieutenant-colonels of 1777, the resolution of 27th May, 1778, notwithstanding.

On the report of a Committee, consisting of Mr. McHenry, Mr. Peters, and Mr. Duane, to whom were referred a letter from Captain Second, and sundry other papers:

Resolved, That Captains Second and De Pontiere, late of Pulaski's legion, be promoted to the rank of majors by brevet in the army of the United States; their relative rank to be settled according to the dates of their present commissions.

Resolved, That Lieutenant Beaulieu be promoted to the rank of captain by brevet in the Army of the United States.

On a report from the Secretary of War:

Resolved, That the brevet commission of major in the army of the United States issue to Captain Haskell, Aide-de-Camp to Major-General R. Howe.

On the report of a Committee, consisting of Mr. McHenry, Mr. Hawkins, and Mr. Madison, to whom was referred a memorial of Lieutenant Edward Phelon:

Whereas Lieutenant Edward Phelon, of the 4th Massachusetts Regiment, hath, by his memorial set forth, that while he was fighting for the liberties of the United States, he received several wounds, under which he has for four years past borne the most excruciating pains; and that during that time he has been without any other support from the public than what has been given to other officers in full health, and that he is still a cripple; and whereas the facts above set forth are certified to be true in all their parts by eleven of the general officers of the army, who have moreover recommended him as having served with reputation to himself and advantage to the United States, and as deserving the favor and confidence of Congress: therefore,

Resolved, That the Secretary of War issue to Lieutenant E. Phelon a commission of captain in the Army of the United States.

The Continental Army was finally disbanded, to take effect November 3, 1783, by a proclamation of the Continental Congress of October 18, 1783. (See page 66, this volume.)

It would appear that the larger part, if not all, of the Continental Army, was, at the time of disbandment, on furlough.

NUMBER OF TROOPS FURNISHED

DURING THE

WAR OF THE REVOLUTION

By the SEVERAL STATES

The exact number of men in the Continental Establishment, furnished by each State in the War of the Revolution, is not known, but an approximate estimate made by Colonel Pierce, Paymaster-General of the Continental Army, and the Treasury Accountants, in 1787, is as shown in the first column of this table. In addition, however, all the States furnished regiments or independent battalions or companies of State Troops, Militia, Rangers, Riflemen, &c., for brief services, who were called out to assist the Continental Army in emergencies, or who were raised to protect and defend their own States, many of whom were in service at two or more different periods. The exact number thus furnished can not be given, but upon examination of various estimates, I believe the figures shown in the second column of the table to be, in round figures, approximately correct:

	CONTINENTAL ARMY	STATE TROOPS, MILITIA, &c.	TOTAL
New Hampshire.....	12,497	4,000	16,497
Massachusetts	67,907	20,000	87,907
Rhode Island.....	5,908	4,000	9,908
Connecticut	31,939	9,000	40,939
New York.....	17,781	10,000	27,781
New Jersey.....	10,726	7,000	17,726
Pennsylvania	25,678	10,000	35,678
Delaware	2,386	1,000	3,386
Maryland	13,912	9,000	22,912
Virginia	26,678	30,000	56,678
North Carolina.....	7,263	13,000	20,263
South Carolina.....	6,417	20,000	26,417
Georgia	2,679	8,000	10,679
Total.....	231,771	145,000	376,771

The total here given is excessive as to the number that served in the army, for many served two, three and even four terms. Many of the men who entered the service in 1775, re-entered in 1776, again in 1777, and again in 1780, and were therefore counted two, three, or four times, and from the best information attainable it is fair to assume that the number of individuals actually engaged in the military service during the war did not exceed 250,000.
